GARDNER'S REVIEW IN LAW AND EQUITY.

A Hand Book for Law Students.

From the Michigan Law Journal:—"This small volume covers in quite a comprehensive manner the whole field of law and equity. A mastery of it will possess the student with almost all the requirements for admission to the bar. It is beyond question the best work of the kind we have ever seen. In no other is the whole field so thoroughly covered. In no other can there be found such a perfect combination of clearness and brevity."

From the New Jersey Law Journal:—"This little book answers a long felt want. To the student it will save a great deal of unnecessary work, for as a review it puts into brief compass all that is necessary, and we venture to say that if carefully followed, a candidate will have little difficulty in passing any examination at any bar to which he may apply for admission."

From the Yale Law Journal:—"The author has reviewed clearly and briefly the entire field of law and equity, and his book, containing a concise statement of the leading principles of each, is an epitome of the best text-books in use in our various law schools. The subject of real property, one of the most difficult to master, though treated with brevity, is, nevertheless, very clearly presented. The various estates are carefully defined, and then illustrated by well selected examples which materially aid the student in comprehending the technical differences of each. The chapter on Quasi Contracts, a subject of increasing importance and one which many text-books overlook entirely, deserves especial mention for its concise but clear presentation. Among the other principal subjects discussed are Contracts, Torts, Pleading, Evidence, Criminal Law and Corporations. A student who masters this volume will have a clear knowledge of the principal subjects of law and may approach a bar examination with confidence."

From Hon. P. Emory Aldrich, Judge Massachusetts Superior Court:—"I find your 'Hand Book for Law Students' admirably adapted to the purpose for which you designed it. Your definitions of legal terms and phrases are clear and explicit, and your statements of legal principles are both brief and comprehensive. I am glad to see that you lead the student, if he follows your guidance, to the study of the sources of the law and to ancient forms of pleading and alienation of real estate. Though these are of little practical value at this time, yet present forms cannot be adequately understood and safely employed without a knowledge of those which preceded them. Your book cannot fail to be highly useful to those who know how to use it, and who ought to be ready to acknowledge their obligation to one who has employed his own learning and leisure to furnish so excellent a guide in their professional and preparatory studies."

From E. Parmelee Prentiss, Esq., General Counsel for the Illinois Steel Company, Chicago:—"I have examined with much interest and profit your 'Review in Law and Equity,' and believe that for its purpose it is far the best of the kind I know. It has the conspicuous advantages of being comprehensive at the same time that it is brief. It is accurate, clear, and arranged in such a way as to assist the memory. A law student making his final preparation for examination could not do better than to follow your Review."

From Wm. Aldrich Tateum, Attorney at Law, Grand Rapids, Mich.:—"Mindful of your experience, high standing and success as a 'quiz master,' it was with pleasure I opened your 'Review in Law and Equity.' Upon careful examination of the work, I was not surprised that you had scored another success. You have covered the ground clearly, concisely and carefully, and given a comprehensive yet simple Review—a very much needed volume."

FORMS

—OF—

Federal Procedure

By FRANK O. LOVELAND,
Of the Cincinnati Bar.

From CHARLES FISK BEACH, Jr.

(Of the New York Bar. Author of BEACH'S MODERN EQUITY PRACTICE.)

DEAR SIR: I have examined "Loveland's Form of Federal Procedure" with much interest, and have already had occasion to use it several times, finding it very convenient and most useful. I am surprised that such a work has not been conceived and published long ago. We have many excellent form books for State court practice, but, except Mr. Loveland's work, as far as I know, no separate and satisfactory compilation of forms for federal procedure. I think that this work must prove of great value to every lawyer whose practice takes him at all into the Federal Courts, and I am sure that it will prove so to me. I shall keep it at hand and refer to it often.

Very truly yours,

CHARLES F. BEACH, JR.

From ROGER FOSTER, Esq.

(Of the New York Bar. Author of FOSTER'S FEDERAL PRACTICE.)

Mr. Loveland's forms are designed more especially for the civil practitioner, although there are nearly a hundred precedents for criminal proceedings. HIS BOOK CONTAINS THE BEST GENERAL COLLECTION OF FORMS FOR FEDERAL PRACTICE IN CIVIL CASES THAT IS IN EXISTENCE. It contains matter of much value never previously published; and in many instances a lawyer will find the opportunity of copying a single form from the full collection of bills in equity therein contained, worth the price of the entire book. Of special value is the collection of forms in ancillary proceedings. The type and paper are especially to be commended.

ROGER FOSTER.

The most careful research and painstaking study has been given every Form herein presented. They are arranged under the following heads:

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1—Forms in Suits at Law. | 10—Forms in Admiralty Cases. |
| 2— " " Equity Cases. | 11— " " Criminal Procedure. |
| 3— " " of Writs. | 12— " " Habeas Corpus Proceedings. |
| 4— " " Injunction Proceedings. | 13— " " Appellate Proceedings. |
| 5— " " Proceedings Relating to Receivers. | 14— " " of Decrees, Judgments, etc. |
| 6— " " Ancillary Proceedings. | 15— " " in U. S. Supreme Court Practice. |
| 7— " " Patent Cases. | 16— " " for Clerks, Marshals and other Court Officers. |
| 8— " " Copyright and Trade-Mark Cases. | |
| 9— " " in Removal of Cases from State Courts. | |

This volume contains the largest number of Forms ever prepared for practice in our Federal Courts, every subject of litigation being carefully considered.

THE STUDY OF CASES.

A Course of Instruction in Reading and Stating Reported Cases, composing Head-Notes and Briefs, Criticising and Comparing Authorities, and Compiling Digests. By Eugene Wambaugh, Professor in the Law Department of Harvard University. Second Edition, 12mo, Cloth, $2.50 NET; Sheep, $3.00 NET.

A book of importance to the Lawyer and Student of Law, its sole purpose is to teach the method of using cases.

Part I., consists of a clear and logical discussion of the way of considering a case, to find the points it covers, the reasons for its conclusions and the proper weight to be given to the final decision, which removes the terrors of Case Study.

Part II., containing a selection of cases, enables Professor Wambaugh to present, in one volume, the three methods of teaching any subject (and the method of studying cases should be a subject as distinct as any other): precept, by a study of the text; example, by following the cases which have been laid upon the operating table and dissected by the author; and experiment, by the student applying for himself, on the cases at the end of the book, the rules of the text and the methods shown.

The three appendices give a Table of Regnal Years in England, a list of approved Abbreviations, and an explanation of the English Terms of Courts, nowhere else accessible we believe in a form so convenient.

Cases for Analysis.

To supplement the Study of Cases. By Eugene Wambaugh, Professor in the Law Department of Harvard University. Crown 8vo, Cloth, $3.00 NET.

This volume is to teach men how to use cases by giving them proper cases to work with. Having this principal purpose, there is another of perhaps equal importance, to present cases covering the chief topics in courses on Contracts and Torts, as they are necessarily given in many of the schools having a two years course. The cases chosen cover the following topics under CONTRACTS: Offer and Acceptance, Consideration, Subscription, Illegality; and under TORTS: Assault and Battery, Defamation, Deceit, Negligence, and Nuisance.

The Federal Income Tax.

Explained, Annotated, and Commented upon. By John M. Gould and George F. Tucker, authors of "Notes on the Revised Statutes of the United States." 12mo, Cloth, $1.00 NET.

This timely monograph gives the full text of the Income Tax Law, fully annotated and commented upon, and compared with the text of the similar acts of 1861-71; the similarities and differences are indicated, as well as the construction by the courts of words, phrases, and clauses common to the old and new Acts.

A full discussion is given of the Constitutionality of the Tax in general, of its Retroactive Effect, and of the Collateral Inheritance and Gains and Profits clauses.

The treatment is the same so successfully used by the Annotators in their well known NOTES ON THE REVISED STATUTES.

THE LAW OF EVIDENCE

INCLUDING THE RULES GOVERNING ITS PRESENTATION, THE EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES, ETC.

By H. C. UNDERHILL, LL.B.

OF THE NEW YORK BAR.

Among the subjects which are treated with considerable fullness are Accomplices as Witnesses; Admissions and Estoppels; Affidavits, their nature and use; Comparison of Writings; Competency of Witnesses; Depositions; Diagrams, Maps, etc. as Evidence; Expert and Opinion Evidence; Res Gestae; Impeachment of Witnesses; Evidence to Prove Insanity; Experiments in Court; Taking the View; Pleadings as Admissions; Stipulations; The Presentation, Rejection and Acceptance of Testimony in Court; The Necessity for and Character of Objections and Exceptions; Confidential Communications to Attorneys and Physicians; Presumptions of Law and of Fact; Judicial Notice, etc., etc.

"It is a superlative work on Evidence, comprehensive, accurate and modern."—CARL C. POPE, Superior, Wis.

"We have made careful examination of the work and are favorably impressed with the results of the author's work, which is manifestly of a high order. His style and arrangement is excellent; the citation of authorities, full and abundant. There is evidence throughout of good judgment, careful study and conscientious research. We have no doubt that the book will take its place among the valuable treatises and be regarded as a controlling authority upon the law and rules of Evidence."—Central Law Journal.

"I am impressed with its succinctness, its accuracy and by the sensible manner in which it treats practical questions that arise continually in Court work. It manifests more common sense than will be found in the bulk of Law Books of the present day."—HON. ADELBERT MOOT, Buffalo, N. Y.

"It satisfies the need which is felt by all who are engaged in studying or imparting instruction on the subject. Mr. Underhill has performed his task thoroughly and satisfactorily."—HON. W. P. FISHBACK, Dean Indiana Law School, Indianapolis, Ind.

"The book is easy to read. Its style is perspicuous and its law is contemporaneous and good."—Yale Law Journal.

Commentaries on the Law of Insurance.

By CHARLES F. BEACH, JR., author of "Contributory Negligence," "Modern Equity," etc. 2 vols. 8vo, sheep, $12.00 net.

Judge Bennett, Dean of the Boston University Law School, an acknowledged authority in this department of Law, writes as follows:

"I have examined with some care the book called 'Beach's Commentaries on Insurance,' and have been much pleased with the manner in which the work has been prepared. Having had some experience in similar work, I can truly say I have seldom, if ever, seen better evidence of a thorough knowledge of the subject, an orderly and methodical development of it, a clear and perspicuous statement of the legal principles asserted, than I find in this treatise. The notes also are very valuable, and have a just and proper proportion to the text. I feel sure that the author is entitled to great credit and the thanks of the profession for giving us such a valuable addition to our legal literature."

The United States Internal Revenue Tax System.

Comprising all Internal Revenue Laws now in force, as amended by the Act of August 28, 1894, including the Income Tax. With all amendments incorporated in their proper places, and the whole copiously annotated, giving under the appropriate section a Digest of of the Decisions of the United States Courts, the regulations and rulings of the Internal Revenue Office, the Treasury Department and the Attorney General. Also including a History of the development of the Internal Revenue Tax System, since the foundation of the Government.

By CHARLES WESLEY ELDRIDGE, Member of the Bar of the Supreme Courts of Massachusetts and California, and for twenty-five years in the Internal Revenue Service. 1 vol. 8vo, $5.00, net.

Half a Century with Judges and Lawyers.

By JOSEPH A. WILLARD, Clerk of the Superior Court, Boston. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.25.

Mr. Willard, who has enjoyed an exceptionally extended and intimate acquaintance with the legal fraternity in Boston, has produced a book of much and varied interest. He gives first his reminiscences, which cover a long term of years and a great number of distinguished persons; then a large collection of anecdotes of the leading lights of the Boston bench and bar. These will be welcome, first to the legal profession, who take peculiar pleasure in the bright stories which originate in or belong to their guild; and secondly, to all who enjoy good stories, by whomsoever told.

DEPARTMENTS OF INSTRUCTION.

The courses of study offered in the University are comprehended in four Departments, under the control of the Corporation, each Department being also under the administration of a distinct Faculty of Instruction. The Departments are as follows:—

THE DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY AND THE ARTS; including
 THE ACADEMICAL DEPARTMENT (Yale College),
 THE SHEFFIELD SCIENTIFIC SCHOOL,
 THE SCHOOL OF THE FINE ARTS, with a special organization, and
 THE COURSES FOR GRADUATE INSTRUCTION, under the combined
 Faculty of the Department.
 THE DEPARTMENT OF THEOLOGY;
 THE DEPARTMENT OF MEDICINE;
 THE DEPARTMENT OF LAW.

GRADUATE INSTRUCTION.

Graduates of this and other Colleges and Universities, and (in exceptional cases, by special permission) other persons of liberal education who are at least eighteen years old are received as students for longer or shorter periods, with or without reference to the attainment of a degree.

The degree of Doctor of Philosophy, with the courses of the Graduate Department leading thereto, are open to candidates without distinction of sex.

An executive committee has a general oversight of the students in this Department. The committee this year is composed of PROFESSORS H. A. NEWTON, G. J. BRUSH, A. M. WHEELER, G. T. LADD, T. D. SEYMOUR, and A. T. HADLEY. They receive the names of applicants for instruction, and judge and approve the courses of study proposed. Information may be obtained from Prof. A. T. Hadley, Yale University, New Haven, Conn., as to conditions, terms, etc. Students may also make special arrangements with any instructor according to their mutual convenience. All graduate students not regularly enrolled in any other Department of the University, are required to register their names at the Treasurer's office at the beginning of each year of study.

The courses are arranged under the following heads: Psychology, Ethics and Philosophy; History, Political and Social Science; Oriental Languages and Biblical Literature; Classical Philology; Modern Languages and Literatures; Natural and Physical Science; Pure and Applied Mathematics; The Fine Arts; Music; Physical Culture.

Instruction is given partly by lectures, partly by recitations and by oral and written discussions, partly by directing courses of reading, and partly by work in the laboratories and with instruments. There are also various voluntary associations, in which instructors and students meet together periodically for the reading of papers, oral discussions, etc.; such are, the Classical Club, the Mathematical Club, the Political Science Club, the Philosophical Club, the Semitic and Biblical Club, and the Modern Language Club.

The fee for instruction is generally one hundred dollars; but it may be more, or less, according to the courses pursued and the amount of instruction received.

The academic year begins Sept. 27th, 1894.

For catalogues and prospectus apply to F. B. DEXTER, Secretary of Yale University, New Haven, Conn.

Courses of Graduate Instruction in History and Political Science.

Professor J. C. SCHWAB: Economic Policy; United States Financial History; United States Public Finance.

Professor IRVING FISHER: Mathematical Theory of Prices.

Five Fellowships yielding $400 each, and twenty Scholarships yielding $100 each, have been created by the Corporation out of the Income of University funds. These fellowships and scholarships are open to graduates of all colleges; but in the case of the fellowships, preference is given to those who have already spent at least one year in graduate study.

Students have the free use of the Library of the University (including the Linonian and Brothers Library), and are admitted to the College Reading Room on payment of an annual fee of two dollars. The University Library contains over 165,000 volumes, and many thousands of unbound pamphlets. Of current periodical publications, including publications of learned societies, the Library receives an unusually large number,—the foreign serials alone being not less than five hundred. The Linonian and Brothers Library contains about 30,000 volumes. The whole number of volumes in the several libraries of the University is over 200,000.

An Important New Treatise, Now Ready

Pingree on Real Property.

By DARIUS H. PINGREE, LL.D.,

Author of Chattel Mortgages and Real Estate Mortgages.

OVER 17,000 VERIFIED AMERICAN AND ENGLISH CASES CITED.

A Modern, Comprehensive and Exhaustive Work, covering the entire Law of Real Property in a methodical, clear and concise manner, treating of many topics not fully discussed elsewhere.

The subject is fully treated in the text, backed by ample reference to authorities,

IN TWO VOLUMES.

Many of the subjects having more cases cited to sustain the principles underlying them, than are to be found in some special treatises on the same subjects; and while all have been fully developed, special attention is called to the full treatment given to Homesteads and Dower; Mine, Oil, Coal and Gas Leases, under the American Conception of these Estates, together with an exhaustive and concise treatment of Deeds and Wills, with a view of Modern Conveyancing, etc.

This is the most complete and valuable treatise on the

in its practical and philosophic treatment yet published; treating the subject on wholly Modern Lines, thus doing away with the necessity of having one book in the School and another in practice.

The work will prove a valuable addition to a library of indispensable law books, and by virtue of its comprehensiveness and modern exposition of the subject, will be specially useful to Judge, Practitioner and Student.

PRICE, $12.00 NET.

Two Large Volumes.

1,880 Pages.

Best Law Book Style.

Will be sent prepaid, ON RECEIPT OF PRICE, by the Publisher.

PUBLISHES, AMONG OTHER THINGS:

THE NATIONAL REPORTER SYSTEM.

The Reporters cover every court of last resort, as well as the Federal courts. You can take one Reporter, or all of them, and so get the current decisions more promptly and much more cheaply than in any other form. When the Reporters were established they revolutionized the old methods of reporting. Send for samples and description.

The Hornbook Series.

This is a series of treatises on all the important subjects of the law which is rapidly becoming one of the most popular sets in the country. The books are used in some forty law schools, and practitioners say they are just the thing for a rapid review of the subject when they take up a case. Uniform price, $3.75 a volume.
